

Mugshot of Scully

Peter Scully

Peter Skully is an Australian criminal who became infamous for his involvement in creating and sharing disturbing videos on the dark web. These videos were related to extreme violence, including murder and torture. Skully was involved in the death of a Filipino woman named Reynaldo "Jemina" Azarcon in 2014, and he was connected to the creation of "snuff films" (videos that show real murders for entertainment). These films were shared on the dark web, a hidden part of the internet where illegal activities often happen

Skully's Crimes:

He kidnapped and murdered women, including Jemina Azarcon, in the Philippines.

He filmed the violence, and the videos were shared on the dark web.

Skully was also involved in the abuse and exploitation of minors.

His Arrest and Conviction:

Skully was arrested in 2015 in the Philippines.

He was charged with murder, kidnapping, and child abuse.

His crimes were linked to a larger network of illegal content being produced and shared online.

The Role of the Dark Web:

The dark web is a part of the internet that isn't easily accessible and is often used for illegal activities like selling drugs, human trafficking, and sharing violent content.

Skully's videos were part of this illegal activity.

Legal and Ethical Issues:

The case raises questions about how to control illegal activities on the internet, especially in hidden parts like the dark web.

It also raises concerns about how to help victims who suffer from such extreme crimes.
